Society for Research in Psychopathology (SRP)

Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion Conference Scholarship

Call for Applications

Objective
To promote the attendance of trainees (undergraduates, post-baccalaureate research assistants, graduate students, and post-doctoral fellows) from underrepresented groups to the annual SRP conference. This award is meant to offset costs that may be prohibitive to attendance. Recipients of this award will have their conference registration and membership fees waived for 2021 and 2022 and be paired with a mentor to aid in professional development.

Eligibility
To be eligible trainees must be from an underrepresented group as defined by the National Institute of Health (NIH). Specific definitions are described here: https://diversity.nih.gov/about-us/population-underrepresented (e.g., a member of a racial or ethnic group underrepresented in biomedical research, persons with mental or physical disabilities, or person from a disadvantaged background; see above link for specific criteria).

Application
Please submit the award face sheet, CV, and a 1 page personal statement that includes:

1) The trainee’s need for funding and description of limited funding options available to them at their home institution.

2) A description of the trainees perceived benefit for attending the conference (e.g., networking, learning about novel research, presenting findings, etc).

All components should be combined into one document and complete applications should be emailed to bjdavis@som.umaryland.edu.

Award
The EDI scholarship awardees will have their conference registration waived for both the 2021 and 2022 annual meetings. Additionally, awardees will have their annual membership fees waived for 2021 and 2022. Awardees will also be paired with a mentor to aid in professional development and networking.
